The article includes the Release Notes for Conga Composer 8.20.236.

New Features and Enhancements

- The FromAddress field on the standard EmailMessage object is automatically populated with the running user's email address in emails sent from Composer with SendGrid integration. This allows administrators to accurately account for the FromAddress in email reporting.
  - Users can also use the EmailFromID parameter to set a specific email address that emails are sent from. This designated email is then populated in the FromAddress field on the EmailMessage object.

Issues Resolved

- Users are now prompted to log into the test.salesforce.com domain when accessing the Conga Batch Dashboard in a sandbox org. Previously, users were prompted to log into the login.salesforce.com domain which prevented them from accessing the Conga Batch Dashboard in sandbox orgs.
- EmailMessage records are created for all emails sent from Composer with SendGrid integration. Previously, emails sent from Composer with SendGrid integration were intermittently not created.
